

Lower your water bill by landscaping for water conservation !

Landscaping for Water Conservation

Free Workshop at Woodland Community & Senior Center

2001 East Street, Woodland, CA 95776
Wednesday, February 15, 5:00 - 7:00 pm

The Yolo Resource Conservation District (RCD), City of Woodland, and Yolo County Master Gardeners are hosting an informational workshop to assist residents in making “water-wise” choices around their homes, including how to save water in day-to-day tasks & through landscaping with native and drought-tolerant plantings. Speaker topics will include water conservation, selecting water-wise plants, and irrigation. Examples of native and drought-tolerant plant species will be on display. Water—wise landscaping information and conservation devices including moisture meters and hose nozzles will be available from City of Woodland.

Photo above of water-wise native & drought-tolerant Mediterranean species courtesy of Ellen Zagory and UC Davis Arboretum.

For additional workshop information:
cityofwoodland.org/waterconservation or
<http://yolorcd.org>

Meeting partially funded by CA Dept. of Conservation & the City of Woodland

For additional information contact:

Dawn Calciano at (530) 661-2067; dawn.calciano@cityofwoodland.org

Chris Robbins at (530) 662-2037 X 106; crobbsins@yolorcd.org